Risk and reward profile

The alternative investment fund is categorized as 5. The indicator illustrates the typical correlation between the risk and your potential return of the investment. The categorization is determined by the fluctuations in the alternative investment fund's net asset value over the past five years, representative data or the maximum risk class.

Significant historical volatility equals high risk and low volatility equals lower risk. Please note that the alternative investment fund's categorization is not constant and the categorization may change over time. Historical performance data is not necessarily a reliable indicator of the future risk profile.

The risk indicator is purely a mathematical calculation and it does not take devaluations, political intervention and sudden fluctuations in interest rates and currencies into account. Risk class 1 is not a risk-free investment.

The principal risks are: Equity risk since the price of equities may be affected by various factors, a.o. the overall economy, changes in market conditions and market stability. Interest rate risk since changes in interest rates may affect investments in bonds. Volatility risk since investments in volatility creates exposure and thereby potential losses and gains when market prices fluctuate. Credit risk since investments in bonds are affected by the issuer's credit rating. Leverage and derivative risk since the fund may be exposed in excess of the net asset value with the effect that market movements may be increased or decreased and losses and gains may be significant. Foreign exchange rate risk since losses and gains on investments in other currencies than that of the class is affected by the development in the exchange rate.
